About Elegbaland Studios

Marc Ward's recording facility may be a home studio in the College Park section of Lake Worth, but his equipment is more comparable to international recording studios. The uncle of renowned producer/engineer Michael Seaman (who operates Listen Up Studios in New Orleans), Ward has conferred with his nephew to assemble Elegbaland's 48-track studio recording gear by Pro Tools, Apogee, API, Empirical Labs, Altec, Universal, Toft, Summit, Vintech, JBL and Nord.

Elegbaland microphones include the brands Sennheiser, Shure, AKG and Oktuara; its keyboards, samplers and drum machines include models by Alesis, Yamaha, Roland, Korg and Akai. If the winning singer prefers to bring in live musicians to record backing tracks, Elegbaland also features vintage amplifiers by Fender, Roland, Ampeg and Mesa Boogie; guitars and basses by Gibson, Rickenbacker, Danelectro, Martin, Taylor and Ovation; a Gretsch drum kit with Zildjian cymbals, plus various percussion instruments.

The Inspirit Idol winner may schedule their recording session through Marc Ward any time in May or June of 2009 (his calendar permitting). Later dates can also be arranged. Renowned area engineers John and Bill Storch will mix and master the winner's recording soon thereafter, and deliver a finished master copy as part of the grand prize package.

Elegbaland clients include Vagrant Records recording artist John Ralston, plus area acts Black Finger, Illumination, Legends of Rodeo, Jeremy Clark, and the Sewing Circle Sues. For further information, call Marc Ward at (561) 301-1528 or visit www.myspace.com/elegbalandstudios or www.lanternrecords.com/Elegbaland.html.
